Newspaper Shapes

Project developed by artist, Annie Lapin
Artwork created by Sydney Maxwell, Age 6

Objective
Students will identify letters within the newspaper. Based on the shapes formed by the connected letters, students will draw a realistic image of an item or animal. They will also explore emotions by adding text to their image that expresses what the image is feeling.

Age Kindergarten and up
Time 55 minutes
Focus Literacy, Visual Arts (Line, Shape, Space, Emotion)

Material
- Newspaper
- Crayons

Core Standards
- Common Core: Language - Print many upper- and lowercase letters.
- Common Core: Reading - Follow words from left to right, top to bottom, and page by page.
- Visual Arts: Creative Expression - Use geometric shapes/forms (circle, triangle, square) in a work of art

Opening (5 mins)
Ask about students’ experience with the newspaper.
- What is a newspaper?
- Why do people read the newspaper?

Distribute a full newspaper page with text on it to each student. Ask students to get 5 different colored crayons to start.
Instruction and Guided Practice (15 mins)

Step 1: As you look through the newspaper, circle every capital A with your crayon that you see. Try to circle at least 5 total.

Step 2: Next, study the page and connect the circled “A” letters to one another to create an image of an animal, person, plant or tree. (Ideally students draw something living that could have an emotion).

If students are having trouble understanding how to find an image in something abstract, show them the photos on the resource page. These examples are meant to help describe how to find an image in something abstract.

Step 3: Now, color in your image using crayons and add details to enhance and transform it. What did you draw?

Work Time (30 mins)
Circulate the room to help students find shapes and color in their artwork.

Closing (5 mins)
With a partner, ask students to share and describe their image.

Extension:
2nd-5th Grade: Ask students to study their image (animal, person, or other living thing) and think of what the image would say if it could talk. Next, ask students to add a thought bubble above their image and write what their image wants to say.
- For example, if you drew a rabbit, write a thought bubble over the rabbit that expresses how the rabbit is feeling or what she/he might want. I.e: “I am a rabbit. I am hungry and would do anything for a carrot!”

Philosophy
Art is an essential tool for early childhood development. Studies have shown that art education helps to increase comprehension of STEM and literacy concepts as well as offering students an outlet to process trauma, develop self-discipline and self-management, and interpersonal relationship skills. Active engagement in the arts can yield positive benefits in social and emotional growth. The art lessons developed by Crayon Collection are meant to support this growth.
